Megan Dougherty : Quilting Isn't Funny: a collection of threadful humor before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Quilting Isn't Funny: a collection of threadful humor:

The four star rating instead of the five is strictly because of level of writing. Ms Dougherty's prose still felt a bit like a blog -which all of the entries came from. Am I being nit-picky? I don't believe so. I am hoping that she continues to write and increase her skills while maintaining her wonderful sense of humor. There is a bit of language in the book bitch is the only word that comes to mind but there are a few more tossed in - not larded with them but they are there. Ms. Dougherty simply takes a fun skewed look at quilting and quilters and juxtaposes those thoughts with ideas from something entirely different (Sex ed. in one) for a delightful fun read.Hope this helps.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. hmmBy MASmithSome very funny things, others ..."meh." Didn't need references to poop or vomit.

Quick! There's a horde of brain-eating zombies headed your way: you only have an acrylic ruler, some safety pins, and a bias tape machine. What do you do? And, hey, zombies aren't the only scary things quilters have to deal with. What happens when your teenager discovers your stash? What are your rights when you get arrested by the Quilt Police? Do you know how to tell which urban legends of quilting are based in fact? What should a quilter's insurance policy actually cover? And what did the Buddha have to say about all this? Quilting Isn't Funny is a collection of hysterical essays by the inimitable creator of the Bitchy Stitcher blog, Megan Dougherty. This is quilting humor with a sharp edge, pieced together from wit, snark, and a little bit of satire. Turns out, quilting is funny. No, make that freakin' hilarious.

About the AuthorMegan Dougherty has been blogging as The Bitchy Stitcher since 2008 and became the humor columnist for Quilters Home magazine in 2009. She was creative director at Generation Q magazine for two years, while continuing her column there. She is also the creator of the annual Quilters Shirtless Man and Spicy Burrito calendar.
